Missionaries In Venezuela Are Re-commissioned

An impressive service was held recently at the Evangelical Free Church, Champion, when the Rev. and Mrs. Harry Ruggles were re-commissioned for their third term of missionary service in Venezuela.

Taking part in the services were Dr. Westlund of Minnesota, secretary of Foreign Missions of the Evangelical Free Church and Rev. Carl Fosmark, Superintendent of the EFC Churches of the Canadian Prairie District.

During the services the two Johnson sisters, Mrs. Vern Beck (Mildred) and Mrs. Harry Ruggles (Marion) sang, "Each Step I Take." Other special numbers sung during the dedication were by a niece and nephew. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ruggles and a nephew, Don Neufeld sang "So Send I you."

A charge to the candidates was given by a nephew, the Rev. Bill Ruggles, pastor of the EFC Church Lethbridge, it was taken from Acts.

Taken from the same scripture, was a charge to the congregation, by the Rev. Edward Ake, president of the Mountain View Bible College, also a nephew.

Attending the couple on the platform was Harry's brother Dorn, as the couple knelt in prayer, re-dedicating their lives to go back to the field of God's choosing for them with a renewed zeal to tell others of Jesus and His great love.

Those attending from out of town were from Meeting Creek, Ponoka, Black Diamond, High River, Bow Island, Enchant, Travers, Lomond, Three Hills, Lethbridge, Hoadley, Didsbury and Armada.

A delicious turkey dinner was served in the basement of the church, by the ladies of the Women's Missionary Society to nearly 100 guests in honor of the

Light Horse Club

Trail Ride In Foothills Enjoyed By Vulcan Group

(By Kirkcaldy Correspondent)

Sunny weather prevailed as the Vulcan Light Horse Association enjoyed a three-day trail ride last weekend when 60 members and 43 horses journeyed to Sheep River 12 miles west of Turner Valley.

On arrival camp was set up under shelter of the spruce and poplar with the foothills and mountains adding their beauty to the setting. After a good breakfast with Bruce Daniels as trail guide and Bob Cutler as trail boss, the trail riders covered 25 miles a day fording streams, crossing bogs, winding their way through heavy timber and riding over several different ridges ranging over 5,000 feet in height and viewing many beautiful scenes as they stopped to rest and have their lunch.

When the riders returned to camp in late afternoon, after attending to their horses, a hearty supper prepared by camp cook, Mrs. Margaret Hanna and her helpers was soon devoured.

In the evening the women who remained in camp during the day and some of the young people were taken on a short trail ride prior to a campfire with the roasting of wieners and marshmallows.

A good trail ride was reported by all with no serious mishaps to any rider or horse, and everyone returned home on Monday tired but happy.

occasion.

A cake supplied by their niece Mrs. Elmer Deal, was very beautifully decorated with the words "Bon Voyage."

On July 13, the home of Grandma Ruggles was the scene of much activity as nearly 50 relatives and friends gathered to wish Harry, Marion, Leslie and Marylin God's speed.

They will journey to New Orleans by car where they will ship their car and supplies by boat and they will continue on by air, hoping to reach their destination by August 1st, where they will carry on their new duties in charge of the Bible Institute in Venezuela.

GUN COLLECTION. A special treat for gun fanciers at the Vulcan Goodwill Day June 6 was the fabulous gun collection of Lawrence D. Halmrast, of Warner. About half of his 400 gun display was on hand completely filling two wings of long tables at the Legion Hall.

The weapons dated back to U.S. Civil War days and with the two rifles on the rack above having six-gun revolver type loading and being valued at $1200 each, the collection runs into thousands of dollars.

Lomond Cattle Win At Lethbridge "Ex"

(By Lomond Correspondent)

In the Interbreed Registered Steer class at the Lethbridge and District Exhibition a Hereford steer, "Wheatcrest Despot 9W", exhibited by B. D. Bolduc of Lomond won first place. This competition, introduced two years ago by the federal government involves points for both live and carcass judging. This steer dressed 61.2% and was purchased by the El Rancho Restaurant for $55c a pound. There were six other entries which placed as follows:

2, Steve Balog, Milk River (Hereford); 3, McIntyre Ranch, Magrath (Hereford); 4, Wayne Malmberg, Coaldale (Charolais); 5, Paul Maler, Lomond (Shorthorn); 6, Jenkins, Twin Butte (Hereford); 7, Newton, DelBonita (Hereford).

The carcasses were on display on Thursday and Friday at the Exhibition Pavilion in a refrigerated truck.

In the Provincial Hereford Show the Grand Champion Female banner was awarded to "Wheatcrest Ailsa 11T" and calf, exhibited by Doug Bolduc. "Wheatcrest Ailsa" was judged senior champion and "Wheatcrest Lucy 13T" exhibited by B. D. Bolduc stood second. B. D. Bolduc also showed the reserve junior and reserve senior champion bulls and won the Breeder's Herd, a group of 4 animals bred and owned by the exhibitor.

Herefords were the featured breed at the Lethbridge Exhibition and Judge Sid Lore said the tops in the classes were truly representative of the breed and finding a bottom end on most of the classes was difficult. Sid Lore also judged the steers alive and Vince MacDonald and Lief Berg judged the carcasses.

THE WINNERS. Victorious in their third year, of hose laying competition was the Vulcan Fire Department crew shown above. This year's event took place July 1st at Claresholm and the boys placed second in the first event and first in the second event to come up with top points. From the left are Tom Wiley, Andy Broere and Cal Rutberg. The fourth member of the team, Joe Boutland, was not present for the photo.

Their times for the two events in which the basic pattern is to couple up 170 feet of hose from a pumper or hydrant and spray a target, were 29 seconds and 29½ seconds.

What may have spurred the Vulcan crews on was the joshing that "Grampa" Broere — oldest competitor — took and he lit out like a racehorse every trip down the 170 foot stretch.

Making up the Foothills Hose Laying Competition are Nanton, High River, Fort Macleod, Claresholm, Vulcan and Okotoks. The hosts at Claresholm had a banquet for the boys following the contest and trophies were awarded at its conclusion.

Best Water Safety Essays

"Water Safety" was the theme of the Alberta Safety Council's 15th annual farm safety essay contest for school students grades five to eight.

Provincial first prize for Grade 8 was won by Jerry-Lynn Deans of County Central School, Vulcan, who received a cash award of $50, a wall plaque with hand lettered certificate for the school room and a gold-plated lapel pin. Jerry-Lynn's essay was the best in the County of Vulcan for Grades 7-8.

Best essay in the County of Vulcan from Grades 5-6 was written by Billy Ulrich of the Champion School. The two prize-winning essays follow:

WATER SAFETY

(By Jerry Deans, Vulcan)

Spring is the time for outdoor fun, but also the time to watch youngsters around rain-filled dugouts and ditches. Several drownings have occurred due to children playing unsupervised in these danger areas. The following incident will clearly illustrate this:

It was a warm, June day, so Mrs. Thompson, of Carstairs, Alberta, put her two-year-old son Jimmy, out in the yard to play. She checked on him frequently finding him contentedly playing with the farmyard pets. Just as she was about to check on him, a neighbor telephoned. Mrs. Thompson became so engaged in her conversation that she forgot all about Jimmy. About ten minutes later, when she checked on the child, she found that he was gone. Thinking that he could not have wandered far, she went out to the barnyard to look for him. After searching the barn and other buildings in vain, a thought of panic struck her. She raced toward the dugout and apprehensively peered over the edge. There she found her son, lying face down, in the muddy water.

The tragedy that struck this family, as it has many other families, could well have been prevented. Small children love to explore and must be carefully supervised at all times. If they are neglected, even if only for a moment, it could lead to such a tragedy.

WATER SAFETY

(By Billy Ulrich, Champion)

John Anderson and Tim Thatcher skipped gaily down the banks of the river near the two boys' homes. Their skates were slung over their shoulders in a carefree manner. The ice in the river had melted a little but there was still good skating for they had skated there the night before. Happily they seated themselves down on a big piece of driftwood. Before you could say, "Jack Be Nimble!" the two boys had put on their skates.

John stepped onto the ice cautiously. Then he proceeded to put his whole weight on the crisp, silvery ice. Satisfied that the ice would hold his and Tim's weight, he scooted off at top speed down the frozen river to the open channel of water. Tim, assured by John's success, then skated, although more slowly, onto the ice. Soon both boys were frolicking and having a wonderful time. They soon shed their bulky parkas in the heat of the spring sun.

A half an hour of hard skating winded the boys. They sat down on the piece of driftwood again and exchanged chit-chat for a few minutes. Tim dared John to jump from one ice sheet in the middle of the river, to the other. John hesitated for a moment. He knew the ice on this sheet was already beginning to crack and melt. He wondered about the middle one. Tim, who had a memory like an elephant, reminded him about his boasts at school of how far he could jump. Finally John gave in to Tim's heckling and started out over the ice. He circled back and around to get enough momentum for the jump. Faster and faster he skimmed over the ice to the very brink. Then, with a mighty leap, he cleared the gap in the ice and landed on the other side. Suddenly there was a sickening moan. The boy turned around. The ice creaked. Cracks appeared. The boy turned pale as fear clutched him with its ice cold fingers. John stood there torturous seconds. The ice gave way and he plunged into the cold, murky waters. Tim jumped up to his feet and tried to run but he had forgotten that he was wearing skates and fell flat. He tried furiously to undo the skates but he was so terrified he only succeeded in making the knots tighter.

A half an hour later the boy came racing into the police station and breathlessly told his story. Within the hour the police were at the scene of the accident. Later, a drag net was set up to recover the body.

The boys had disobeyed the safety rules. They never should have been skating on the river at this time of the year. Many tragedies occur in this way. The Andersons lost a child. Tim lost a buddy. Please read this story and take heed of the lesson it conveys.

Prospects Excellent

Real Good Crop Likely But Some Hail Damage

Some hail damage in various parts of the county over the weekend has been reported, with the worst storm being in the Armada district where damage ranged from light to almost 100% in an area east of Armada. The storm here apparently continued through to Bow City.

Southwest of Vulcan, about eight or nine miles west of Kirkcaldy, a hail storm Saturday night damaged several hundred acres of crop up to an estimated 80%. It is reported that another storm caused some hail damage a few miles north of the Corner Store over the weekend.

Other than the ever present threat of hail, prospects for a better-than-average crop remain excellent. Rain showers of up to one-half inch fell in many areas Sunday and moisture conditions are generally good.

Wheat is now pretty well all headed out and elevator agents' estimates of average yields range from 30 up to 50 bushels per acre. Crops are a bit later than usual but the expected return of warm, dry weather this week will help speed things up. It is unlikely that much wheat will be harvested before September but some rye fields appear almost ready for swathing. Haying is in full swing and the crop is good.

New Food Store Opens This Week

Jordan's AG Foods is the name of a new food store that will hold its grand opening in Vulcan this weekend, July 28-29-30.

Proprietor is Ronald (Ron) Jordan, who was born at Vulcan and attended public and high school at Champion. He was a partner in the Champion Locker Plant for three years and then bought grain at Vulcan for one year before getting into the grocery business at Hanna where he was at the Jenkins store for a year. For the past four years he has been with Safeway stores in Lethbridge.

Occupying the premises of the former Central Meats, which have been completely renovated, Jordan's AG Foods will carry a full line of groceries, produce and meats.

Mr. Jordan is married to an Ensign girl, the former Marjorie Bride, and they have two young sons.

users decided to use a mixture of two or more common household cleaners. When widely-used household chlorine bleach is combined with an acid or acid-producing substance as toilet bowl cleanser, there is a sudden release of chlorine gas. The same thing happens when chlorine bleach is mixed with ammonia, lye or other alkaline substance.

If the gas is inhaled it can cause serious injury and possibly death. Accidents of this type have occurred not only in the bathroom and kitchen but also in the cleaning and treating of water in swimming pools.

Don't make the mistake of thinking that two household cleaners are better than one. Sometimes such a combination is disastrous.

Remember—watch what you mix. Don't mix chlorine bleach scouring powders with toilet bowl cleaners, ammonia, lye, rust remover or oven cleaner.

Mixing Of Ammonia and Bleach Dangerous

A peculiar type of accident has been reported to the National Safety Council and is of local interest because two such incidents have occurred in the County of Vulcan, with results that could easily have been very serious.

In the incidents reported to the Safety Council, two housewives were each using an ordinary toilet bowl cleanser. Not satisfied with the way it was removing stain, each one added some household bleach and stirred with a brush. One housewife died quickly; the other spent a long time in hospital.

Here's what happened. A poisonous gas was liberated when the

The Medallions, more than 5,500,000 of them, will be distributed to all Canadian school-children, grades one to 13, as reminders of the Centennial Year and its significance to Canada and to Canadians.

The Medallions will be minted by the Royal Canadian Mint and will be made of red brass metal, an alloy of copper and zinc. They will be one and one-quarter inches in diameter or about the size of a silver dollar.

BRIDAL SHOWER

A bridal shower was held on July 19 in the Blackie Hall in honor of Sharon Christofferson whose marriage to Grant Cooke takes place July 30 at 4:30 in the High River United Church.

A western motif was used throughout the hall with the bride and her attendants Marilyn Duguid and Elaine Moore of Calgary and Leslie Cooke and Lesley Christofferson of Blackie being seated at the manger with the old corral for backdrop. The gifts were brought in a miniature chuckwagon drawn by diminutive cowgirl and cowboy, Colleen Gehrke and Michael Falkner.

The guests were entertained during the evening by a beautiful fashion show of 20 bridal gowns from the years 1895 to 1965. It was led off by Mrs. Eldon Seney modelling the very lovely white wool wedding gown of the late Mrs. Henry Rhodes of Brant, who was married in 1895, and continued on through the years ending with a sneak preview of Sharon's wedding gown. This was an original creation of wedding paper, white doilies and bows, modelled by Monica Montgomery, carrying a bouquet of rhubarb and yellow mums.

Following the opening of the presents Sharon graciously thanked everyone for coming and for all the beautiful gifts. The bride and her party were then seated at the bride's table which was laid with lace tablecloth, pink candles, pink and white streamers and centered with a beautifully decorated bride's cake. EARLY TREATMENT

RECOMMENDED FOR PINK EYE

To prevent outbreaks of pink-eye, Dr. F. E. Graesser, with the Alberta Veterinary Services Division, advises checking cattle regularly during the summer months and treating any cases as soon as possible.

Best results are obtained by blowing powders containing antiseptics, sulfa drugs, and antibiotics into an infected animal's eyes. Treatment is usually effective when started early and continued for a few days. If a film has developed over the cornea of the eye, a veterinarian should be consulted in case more drastic treatment is required. Treatment is usually more effective when animals can be confined in a dark building.

Pink-eye is an infectious disease which frequently leads to blindness and a consequent loss of condition. It is particularly prevalent when there are a lot of flies around. The first symptoms are inflammation and the severe running of one or both eyes. These symptoms may be followed by the appearance of a white film on the surface of the eyeball, known as cornea opacity. Blindness results when the eye becomes covered with the film. Sometimes an ulcer will occur which may penetrate the eyeball so deeply that it collapses from loss of fluid.

According to Dr. Graesser, attempts to prevent pink-eye with bacterins have met with doubtful success. The best prevention of pink-eye is still to keep a careful check on the cattle and to treat any cases as soon as they are discovered.

Just before preparing this article I checked with D. Ken Orchard of the Vulcan Animal Clinic. Dr. Orchard says that there have been a "normal" number of cases of pink-eye in the County of Vulcan No. 2. He went on to say that a number of farmers have treated their animals for pink-eye only to find that they came down with pneumonia and even lost the odd animal. The disease they really had was I.B.R.

This disease I.B.R. is commonly called "red nose." This disease has occurred in a number of herds and been mistakenly treated for pink-eye by the owner. Because of this, it might do well to be extra careful of a quick diagnosis at home.

CLERICS' CORNER

This week's contributor: Rev. Victor G. Cowell
St. Aldhelm's Anglican Church

SHOULD WE ATTEND CHURCH IN THE SUMMER?

A way of thinking has crept into our midst during the past few years and that is, "When school is out for the summer — church worship is out too." The fallacy of this idea is pointed out vividly here — because the statement implies that church worship is the same thing as getting an education. Now while it may be true that we get educated into the ways of God when we go to church this is not the only thing that happens.

When we go to worship God — we have that vital encounter with God Himself — that everyone of us really needs — just as much in the summer, as at any other time of the year. In fact — more can often be gained from church. During the summer season we are more relaxed, there are not so many pressing things to attend to as at other times. The beauty of the surrounding countryside makes it easier for us to grasp the mercy and the love of God, and in many cases services are more simple — because people tend to come to church at this time of year as a family (Sunday School having closed down).

Whether you are at home or on vacation — make a point to attend church this summer — it could be an unforgettable experience and I know that it will enrich your vacation.

ON THE BLOCK. A back view of Vulcan auctioneer Wally Franks is shown as he works on his crowd during sale of one of the 100 cars which went at the annual Vulcan Car Auction recently. Local car dealers Central Garage, Wheat Centre Motors, Richardson and Gould and Donnor Sales and Service, who put up the cars, trucks and tractors for the sale, were pleased with the clean-out, it brought although in many cases prices brought were one-half or less than the appraised value given the units. This was another outside event which played a peek-a-boo with the weather during June as the day previous found the district in a drenching rain which gave no sign of easing as darkness fell. However skies cleared overnight and the sales lot was relatively dry for the sale. Commodore Allen was the other auctioneer contracted.

Economic Analysis

The recently announced plan for an economic analysis of the County of Vulcan — to be carried out by a top-rated firm of economic consultants — is original and bold in that it is apparently a "first" in Canada for a farming area the size of this county, (which covers 2,232 square miles) and the first time that farmers themselves, as represented by their county councillors, have decided to underwrite the costs of such a large-scale plan rather than wait for government action. It may be unique, too, in its primary objective of calculating production costs of wheat, which is our major crop, for the figures which result from this analysis will not be based on just a few farms but will be the result of a survey covering farms from one-half section up to seven or eight sections in size. Soil types also have a bearing on grain production and in the County of Vulcan the soil varies from heavy loam in the west and north to light and sandy east and south.

These factors, plus the knowledge that Vulcan County is in the very heart of Southern Alberta's wheat-growing belt, make this an ideal area for such an economic survey.

Secondary objectives of the analysis will be the calculating of production costs of other grain crops and of livestock. The complete statistical examination of the county that is indicated would eventually develop figures to give costs by areas and farm sizes.

We have a nagging feeling that, with wheat occupying the position it does as Canada's major export, an economic analysis to determine the actual cost of producing a bushel of wheat is long overdue and that such analyses should also be conducted in wheat growing areas of Saskatchewan and Manitoba as well, with costs of all three surveys paid by the federal government. If the federal bureau of statistics has any believable figures on wheat production costs they certainly haven't been publicized and we don't think that a cost analysis such as is proposed for Vulcan County is a duplication of any existing effort.

The selling price of wheat, admittedly subject to the law of supply and demand, should certainly have some relation to its cost of production. The facts and figures that will result from the economic survey in this area will, from any viewpoint, be of great interest.

U.S. Tax Advantages

(By C. J. Harris)

How do Yanks and Canucks compare in personal income tax matters? Various government spokesmen have argued recently that our neighbors have no edge but tax expert John G. McDonald, writing in the Toronto Globe and Mail, says that Americans not only have 30 per cent higher incomes than Canadians, but they also have important tax concessions denied north of the border.

One of their main advantages can be the "joint return" of husbands and wives. A married couple may make a single return jointly, even if one has no income personally, and the tax would be twice the tax imposed if the income were half. As an example of the saving, a married couple with a taxable income of $8,000 could elect to pay twice the tax on $4,000, or $1,380, rather than $1,630. The amount payable in Canada on that income, including the Old Age Security Pension but not the Canada Pension Plan, would be $1,690.

Another advantage enjoyed by Americans is that all interest payments are deductible from taxable income. This covers not only mortgage interest for the home-buyer, but also such expenses as interest paid if buying a car or household furnishings on the instalment plan.

There is no doubt in Mr. McDonald's mind that Canada's income tax law is unfair. "It will stay that way," is his significant conclusion, "until Canadians wake up to the fact that they are being badly treated by their government."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Advocate:

Dear Sir,

Would you please allow space for a little righteous indignation to be expressed? I am thoroughly disgusted with the Committee for the Lomond Anniversary Celebration and for the Anniversary supplement in The Advocate.

Lomond indeed! How could they honor the pioneers of Lomond when their names were very carefully omitted. They did not even mention the very ones who first settled in Township 16 in which Lomond was built.

Oh yes, they had Armada and Badger Lake well represented! As a person born and brought up in Lomond I was ~~astat~~ to see the names of the committee members. Lomond indeed! No wonder the true pioneers were so carefully omitted. One out of thirteen represented Lomond!

Do they not know Dennis Williams was the first homesteader in the township long before Lomond was built? Do they not know Lomond was built on the very quarter of land homesteaded by Sam Harp? Do they not know it was the pioneers like J. R. Mackay, E. M. Benson, P. Ost, J. Rodgers, John Prizer, George Hodgins, A. Wade, Mr. Bell, Sr., Frank and Bill Newton, Bert Duffy, Al Vankleek, Roy Williams, Bill Smith Carl Maronda, Andrew and Jack Hartwick, Claude Blake and others that should be honored? Not even a word about these true pioneers, but plenty of words about people who have come to Lomond within the past few years!

The picture of the cast of an Armada play of the 1930's — of people who just "came and went" for the most part! That honors the pioneers?

The anniversary supplement was a shocking revelation of gross disregard for the pioneers. Whoever researched the information on the organization of the school districts for example, left out the first school, "Rolling Prairie" organized in great part by E. M. Benson. The same school building became a part of the Lomond school years later.

Under the circumstances, can they expect the real pioneers of Lomond and their families to participate in this celebration for Armada and Badger Lake? Remember, the town of Lomond came second. Those hardy homesteaders came first!

—Disgusted Ex-Lomondite.

44-Hour Work Week Now Standard Throughout Alberta

Effective January 1, 1966 a maximum 44-hour work week in industry became uniform throughout Alberta. Effective July 1, 1966 a maximum 44-hour work week and a $1 an hour minimum wage in industry became standard throughout the province. These changes are by order of the Board of Industrial Relations.

Maximum hours of work in areas of 5000 population and less, were reduced from a 9-hour day and a 48-hour week to a maximum 9-hour day and 44-hour week, effective January 1, 1966. In 1952 the 44-hour week first became effective in Alberta when the Board ordered a 44-hour week in the cities of Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge and Medicine Hat. In 1961 a 44-hour week was extended to all cities, towns and villages having a population over 5000. The new order makes a maximum 44-hour work week mandatory in Alberta.

Maximum hours of work for those employed in the following industries are reduced from 208 to 191 hours in a month effective January 1, 1966: geophysical exploration, land surveying, oil well servicing, highway construction (maximum 10-hour day), saw mills from November 1 to March 31 (maximum 9-hour day) and day-labor camps (maximum 10-hour day).

The minimum hourly wage for workers in industry in areas of population of 5000 and under was increased from .85 to .95 effective January 1, 1966, and to $1 an hour effective July 1, 1966. Farm laborers, domestic servants, municipal police and those who come within the application of the federal labor code are excluded from the provisions of the new order of the Board.

Copies of all regulations are available from the offices of the Board of Industrial Relations, Department of Labor, in Edmonton, Calgary, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Grande Prairie and Red Deer.

COWS PREFERRED

On a recent trip to Vermont, I did some research on agricultural statistics and noticed that the cow population of the state was larger than the human population. "How do you account for that?" I asked a native son. "We prefer 'em," he replied.

THE HOMEMAKER

MISS FRANCES ANN CULLEN
District Home Economist
Box 480, Vulcan — Phone 485-2117

Today, in our part of the world many people (I think you will agree), are overfed rather than underfed. In other words overweight has become the big problem of the sixties. Years ago overweight was considered a sign of prosperity and good health. I can even remember my grandfather saying, "She's a fine big girl" and this was considered to be a compliment. Not so today. We all know that an overweight person is not necessarily healthy. Statistics show that people who are much overweight are susceptible to certain diseases and have less resistance to infection.

Doctors tell us that the main cause for overweight is too much food together with too little exercise. We hear people say, "It runs in the family." Well, heredity does play a part but to what extent is not completely understood. However, family eating customs can contribute to overweight — especially if the woman of the house is an excellent cook and likes very rich dishes.

For some people food becomes a substitute for something lacking in their lives — security or love. Many of us eat too much when we're bored or restless and to relieve tense feelings. But many others eat too many highcalorie foods because they haven't taken time to find out what foods are low in calories and high in nutritive value. Dieting is becoming the national pastime of young and middle-aged, particularly among the women folk. Before you do anything drastic in the way of dieting you should find out what your weight should be for your height, age, and sex. Then if the problem seems too great consult your doctor and with his help discover what your eating pattern is and how it can be changed.

Fats and sugary, starchy foods are highest in calories. You should cut down on fat meat, butter, shortening, cream salad oils, candies, pastries, pop and cocktails. You'll say — "What's left?" Well, a diet isn't necessarily a lettuce and carrot regimen. This idea is outdated. You may be able to eat the foods you're accustomed to but in smaller amounts and prepared differently.

Eating a variety of foods is the clue. The more foods you learn to like the easier it is to substitute low for high calorie ones.

A good breakfast (1/4 to 1/2 of the daily calories) is an important factor in helping you to resist those between meal snacks. It's also beneficial to eat slowly as this makes amounts of food seem more satisfying.

Weight should be lost gradually over a period of time. A reduction of one pound per week is recommended by many doctors; and a weight reduction of approximately two pounds weekly, is about as rapid weight reduction as is considered advisable.

Last but not least exercise a little everyday even if it's just a walk to the corner store. Walking is fun and a help in keeping your weight down.

More information on this problem is available through my office.

Irrigation Research

Irrigation research reports on irrigation administrations, economic benefits, drainage, and policies of irrigation districts in Southern Alberta have been submitted for your governments and agricultural officials study. It is the aim of these reports to give the policy makers information and direction to make our irrigation projects a greater benefit for the farmer.

This week I received a research report on the "Analysis of the Structure of Irrigation Administrations." The report of G.B. Paribby has ten recommendations for administration improvement. In brief he recommends: A Board of Trustees should be the basic policy making unit, as a Board allows for separation of local and provincial interests or a combination of both, and it represents both financial interests; The basic managerial unit should be a manager who has been delegated the authority and responsibility to carry out the policies of the Board; The joint use of contracted or hired services by all administrations should be encouraged and made available to all that have need for it. Research, construction of large extensions, legal work are in this area; Consolidation of legislation on all irrigation acts; One designated body through which all problems of administration can be channeled; and other administration efficiency measures.

Hon. Strom in Taber

Hon. H. Strom, Minister of Agriculture will attend a meeting on Aug. 3 in the Taber Community Centre to discuss the irrigation studies. The public as a whole, and particularly the irrigation farmers, are invited to come and give their opinions and viewpoints as the development of new policy must reflect the thinking of the people it directly affects. I hope to see many of you there.
